Payment Methods

Full payment of tuition, residence hall fees, and other related charges are due prior to the start of the term as specified on the original bill. A past due balance may result in prevention of registration or grade release. Payments will be accepted for billed charges only. The university is not able to process payments for more than the balance due on the student's account.

Payment Plans

Northeastern University offers monthly payment plans, which are administered through Flywire.

The monthly payment plan allows you to divide your educational costs into smaller, more manageable, installments. In using this plan, it can reduce your need to borrow, thereby, reducing the overall cost of education and can be combined with your financial aid award or other financing options.

Because the payment plan is not a loan, you do not have to pay interest, only an enrollment fee of $45 per term.

Additional information regarding payment plan options can be found in the Payment Plan FAQ's.

Please note the following:

- Payments toward the monthly payment plan can be made by e-check.
- Monthly payment plans cannot be used for past due balances.
- The "deadline to enroll" may vary from the billing due date posted on your billing statement. Students are encouraged to resolve any balance due by the due date on their bill.
- Payment plans are budget-based. If students don't know their final student account balance, they should enter an estimated balance when enrolling. Once their account balance has been finalized, they should update the amount of the plan to reflect the final balance due. Payment plan balances do not update automatically if their account balance changes.
- Monthly Payment Plans are not currently available for Canadian Campus Students.
