

Undergraduate Fees and Funding

Undergraduate degree fees

Tuition fees for home and international students for the 2026/2027 academic year.

Home students

For home students (U.K./Irish nationals or permanent residents who have permanently resided in the U.K. or Ireland for the last three years), the home fees policy can be found here. Undergraduate fees for 2026/27 entry: £9,790 per year.

International students

Culture, Technology, & Global Challenges BA (Hons), Economics BSc (Hons), Law LLB (Hons), Philosophy BA (Hons), Psychology BA (Hons), Politics & International Relations BSc (Hons), English BA (Hons), History BA (Hons): £23,857 per year.

Business BSc (Hons), Data Science BSc (Hons), Computer Science & Business BSc (Hons), Philosophy & Computer Science BSc (Hons): £28,411 per year.

Funding for home students

Home undergraduate students at Northeastern University London can access tuition fee loans and maintenance loans to cover course fees and living costs.

The university also offers various bursaries such as the Northeastern University London Bursary, providing up to £5,000 annually for students with household incomes under £63,500.

Home student funding

Funding for international students

International undergraduate students are automatically considered for competitive academic merit scholarships worth up to £3,000, awarded based on achievement. Eligible students, particularly from the US, may also access private loans through Sallie Mae to support tuition fees and living costs whilst studying in London.

International student funding

London on a student budget

With over 425,000 students in London, there are numerous ways to manage your expenses and make the most of living in the city while staying within your budget. Here are just a few of our best tips on managing your finances as a student in London.

Monthly costs and money saving tips

Student finance support and money advice

Our dedicated advisers provide free, confidential support to help students handle money matters while studying at university. From understanding student loans and creating budgets to addressing broader financial concerns and accessing our hardship fund, we're available to assist you throughout your studies.

Student finance support

Paying your deposit and fees

We've made paying your fees straightforward and flexible. Choose from lump sum payments, semesterly instalments or convenient monthly Direct Debit options. International students can pay securely via TransferMate in their local currency. Our finance team is here to support you every step of the way.

Paying your deposit and fees

Cookie Preferences