

How to get your CAS

If you need a student visa to study at Northeastern University London, you must obtain a Confirmation of Acceptance for Study (CAS) before you apply for your student visa.

Your Confirmation of Acceptance for Study (CAS)

Your CAS is an electronic reference document that Northeastern University London produces and is required for your visa application.

Your CAS contains information about you and your programme of study. It advises UK Visas and Immigration (UKVI) that Northeastern University London is sponsoring your visa for the duration of your programme of study.

Northeastern University London's Office of Global Services, United Kingdom (OGS UK) is here to support you every step of the way and will explain to you the specific documentation and information we require to issue your CAS.

It's important to note that it can take a month or two to prepare your documentation, so we strongly recommend that you start collating your documents as soon as you accept your offer to study at Northeastern University London.

Four steps to get your CAS

Select...

1. Pay your deposit

If you will be studying for a degree awarded by Northeastern University London, you must pay your deposit of £3,000 before we can issue your CAS.

If you are a London Scholars student, you are not required to make an additional deposit to NU London.

You'll find details of how to pay your deposit here.

How do I request a CAS?

How do I pay my deposit?

What if my documents are not in English?

What happens to my deposit if my CAS is not issued?

When will you issue my CAS?

What documentation is required for a CAS?

Cookie Preferences